

Digital Climate Strike

on

22 April 2021

The climate emergency is the biggest crisis we are facing, and it won't wait until after COVID-19 is dealt with. With that thought in mind, NSS Unit of GIBS organized Digital Climate Strike where the entire institute pledged to save planet Earth by not using any digital device on 22 April 2021. During the strike, students, faculty and the people connected with them were urged to skip the use of laptops, computers, mobile phones and all other gadgets for one day. The strike was meant to be a “wake-up call” for the young generation. The youngsters are the ones who are going to bear the brunt of it in the coming decades. Almost hundred students actively participated in the strike by posting picture of themselves holding homemade signs with slogans like “There is no Planet B” and “Respect mother Earth. Act Now”. All these students used hashtags #digitalclimatestrike” and tagged 10 friends to take the pledge thereby creating a pool of people who went on the strike on the Earth Day. No information was passed on using digital devices on the day of strike and no online classes were conducted. The digital youth climate movement was a success.
