A very well-planned orientation programme was organized for students of BA.LLB, BBA.LLB, LL.B. (H) and LL.M. Among other things, the main purpose was orienting the students to the programmes of study in law and to adhere to the NAAC requirement of Effective Delivery of Curriculum. The participating students were extremely curious about the programme to start their new journey with enthusiasm and keenness, ensuring a meaningful indulgence with their chosen careers ahead. Initially, after lighting of the Lamp and Saraswati Vandana, a thorough introduction was given about the giBS as an institution of higher learning, its best accreditation record and success story of producing good lawyers and executives performing in courts, government departments, corporate houses and personal law offices with worthy achievements. Presence of Alumni and experts of legal studies on the occasion from other reputed universities was quite a good notable feature of the event. The efforts of the founders and the management, Shri R N Jindal and Shri Anirud Jindal were objectively underscored and appreciated. Welcome address was delivered by Professor (Dr.) M. Afzal Wani who accentuated the significance of law and legal studies, encouraging the students for having opted for law as a career which is presently most booming in the world. He ensured them a very purposeful journey through giBS to their profession and competence to serve humanity and the nation with notable performances. He impressed upon the students to maintain a culture of hard work, consistency and discipline which is indispensable for success in life. That is also necessary to attain the Goal of Viksit Bharat. He appreciated the role of College Authorities for their continuous support in maintaining the best facilities at the college. Additionally, Professor (Dr.) Urvesh Choudhary, Director, giBS also extended welcome to the students and the guests with excellent advices and anecdotes. She made the students understand the importance of working concernedly during their college life to develop strength so that they can support their future life as expected. She expressed the hope that the students will follow the advice to make their future better.

She made the students understand the importance of working concernedly during their college life to develop strength so that they can support their future life as expected. She expressed the hope that the students will follow the advice to make their future better.

Speaking on the occasion, Professor (Dr.) Anupam Jha, Professor-In-Charge Law Centre II of the University of Delhi stressed the fact that law students should always maintain the positivity and hope of success with quite sustained efforts. Legal studies and the profession of law is full with challenges, but a determination full with hope makes all the way possible to everything better. He referred to Indian tradition of making a task easier by due involvement and continuity of efforts. He expressed happiness on joining the event in an institution with a very good infrastructure.

Professor (Dr.) Pradeep Kulshreshtha, Dean, School of Law, Bennett University also addressed the students. He mainly emphasized the fact that the students should realize the necessity of hard work for any results. Referring to writings of APJ Abdul Kalam, Swami Vivekananda and others, he said that mere dreaming will not suffice. Hard work should be done to realize the dream. There is a need to improve the work culture in India as some smaller nations have made their way ahead by developing a better working environment.

A distinguished, who is associated with the Department of Civil Aviation, Government of India, spoke on the occasion and effectively motivated the students to work for a very bright future ahead. He advised the students to study all the courses with interest. They must not follow the myth of some courses being not very interesting. Every law is very interesting and should be studied with life experiences to make it understanding and interesting. In reply to some questions he advised students to maintain good learning environment in class and promote good behavior. For the appraisal of the new students, Dr. Neelam Seam, CLS Programme Coordinator made a comprehensive presentation explaining about the CLS programmes and academic activities with introduction of clubs, societies and other groups at the CLS and College level. References were made to events being organized by the college every year and the Internal and the External Examination and Evaluation Systems. Cultural groups of the college made fabulous performances on the occasion enthusing new students with cheer and sense of satisfaction. Some new students shared their introduction on the Dais with charming expressions. The programme ended with vote of thanks by Ms. Ramandeep Kaur, CLS Coordinator in which she described the best feature of the college and thanked all the guests, students and faculty members present.
